Governance Modernization Initiative

Strengthening Governance. Preserving the Mission. Preparing Future Leaders.

During 2026, the Executive Board of the Nevada Association of Latino Administrators & Superintendents (NVALAS) initiated a comprehensive review of the Association's governing documents. The objective was to modernize the Bylaws, improve consistency with the Executive Board Handbook, strengthen organizational accountability, and establish a governance framework that reflects the Association's growth and long-term vision.

Rather than continuing to amend the original governing document, the Executive Board elected to prepare these Restated Bylaws as a unified governance publication. This effort consolidates prior amendments, updates organizational terminology, clarifies leadership responsibilities, and aligns governance practices with the Association's current structure and applicable nonprofit governance standards.

This modernization initiative is grounded in several guiding principles:

- Promote transparency and accountability in governance.
- Clearly define the roles and responsibilities of Executive Board officers.
- Align the Bylaws with the Executive Board Handbook while avoiding duplication of operational procedures.
- Support leadership succession and preservation of institutional knowledge.
- Strengthen fiduciary oversight and ethical stewardship.
- Provide a governance framework capable of supporting NVALAS for years to come.

Executive Board Review

This Executive Board Review Edition is intended to encourage thoughtful review and constructive recommendations prior to formal adoption. Board members are encouraged to evaluate the document from a governance perspective, ensuring that it accurately reflects how NVALAS intends to lead, serve, and fulfill its mission.

Our Commitment

Good governance is not an end in itself. It is the foundation upon which leadership, service, and organizational excellence are built.

Why a Restated Bylaws?

Building upon our history while preparing for our future.

Since its founding in 2018, the Nevada Association of Latino Administrators & Superintendents (NVALAS) has experienced significant growth in membership, leadership development, statewide partnerships, advocacy, and organizational capacity. As the Association evolved, amendments were made to the original bylaws to address changing needs and governance practices.

Rather than continuing to amend multiple sections over time, the Executive Board determined that preparing a comprehensive Restated Bylaws would provide a clearer, more consistent governance framework. A restated document consolidates prior amendments into a single publication while modernizing governance language and improving readability.

The Executive Board also recognized the importance of aligning the Bylaws with the Executive Board Handbook. The Bylaws establish governance authority and organizational structure, while the Handbook provides operational guidance and expectations for Executive Board service. Together, these documents create a comprehensive governance framework.

Objectives of the Restated Bylaws

- Consolidate previously adopted bylaws and amendments into one governing document.
- Clarify Executive Board authority, officer responsibilities, and governance expectations.
- Align governance provisions with the Executive Board Handbook while avoiding unnecessary duplication.
- Strengthen transparency, accountability, fiduciary stewardship, and leadership succession.
- Provide a governance framework that supports the Association's continued growth and long-term sustainability.

Looking Ahead

The Executive Board Review Edition is intended to encourage thoughtful discussion before adoption. Recommendations from the Executive Board will be incorporated into the final adopted edition, ensuring that the Restated Bylaws reflect the collective vision and governance priorities of NVALAS.

Good governance honors the past, serves the present, and prepares the future.
